

I Wanna Go:

Building your international connections

Resource list

We will keep adding to this list of resources around international engagement and mobility as the program unfolds, so check back in from time to time.

Videos & Podcasts

Global First Nations Exchange discussions from APAM

These two panel conversations recorded in June honour the international trade that First Nations artists have always led and provides a context for current First Nations global exchange. They explored how key international First Nations relationships were developed, and redefine 'market development' as relationships and reciprocity, our people over product centred approach.

Part 1

Part 2

This is an excellent PuSh Festival podcast from early 2022, exploring concept touring, or process touring as it's also known.

The link from the 18 October I Wanna Go session will be added here when available.

PDFs, lists & links

The APAM website is constantly updated with news, opportunities and resources. We also recommend signing up to the APAM email list to receive monthly news.

This paper from the APAM Global First Nations exchange discussions has lists of First Nations companies, festivals & useful resources in Aotearoa/NZ, Australia, and Turtle Island/North America.

This paper includes lots of useful tips around international engagement, and also includes funding information and a list of international performing arts markets and platforms.

Res Artis has a searchable, international listing of artist residencies across all countries and artforms.